To whom it may concern,

Wurzel Builders completed a very complicated project with a challenging schedule for Charles Schwab this past year at our campus in Austin on Research blvd. The Wurzel organization has worked in the building(s) for about 12 months to completely refurbish approx 150,000 sq ft of high end office space; which included, but not limited to, a new cafeteria, lobby upgrade, new retail branch, and a complete new customer presentation suite. The project had multiple phases in a fully occupied building. The work was done without causing any work interruption and the Wurzel organization was very sensitive to the business and employee needs during the entire process. Wurzel was instrumental in the partnership it established with architect and Schwab Project Manager to resolve the many design challenges, budget constraints, schedule deadlines, and construction methods. All parameters were met without exception. The Wurzel on-site team was courteous, professional, and attentive throughout the entire duration of the project. Schwab has very high expectations of its vendors and Wurzel is of the highest quality. I have no hesitation in strongly recommending Wurzel to anyone considering a project in the Austin area.
